To the Reader.

AS the following list is of a nature with the Court Kalendar, annually published, it might be expected that the several articles of it should have been ranged as they are in that, i. e. all the Military Preferments under one head, and so in every other article throughout the whole. But this is purposely avoided: the preferments for the last two months of the year 1760 (in which his present Majesty ascended the Throne) are placed together; the years 1761 and 1762, in the same manner, and the seven months, part of the current year in the same order, that the reader may the better observe the progress of the late ministry; and by this means have a kind of political view of the alterations that have been made in the government of these kingdoms, and the places subject to, and dependent upon them. However, those who may choose to see all the preferments under one head, have only to consult the Index.

The strange means that have been used to prevent the Annual Registers from being perfect, have rendered this publication in some measure necessary. The utmost care has been taken to render this List as complete as possible; but as there is no possibility of having a work of this kind quite perfect, we shall be very much obliged to any gentleman that will be kind enough to correct any thing that he may find inserted wrong, or that will send us an account of any preferments that may have escaped us; which will be thankfully received by the Publisher, and carefully attended to in the next Edition. We can assure the Public that we have taken care to insert many names in this List, that some persons would have been glad to have had concealed; and we are sorry to see among these, the names of several persons that were remarkably active in the ever memorable years of 1715 and 1745. The Public will now have an opportunity of seeing what foundation there is for the general clamour against the great numbers of Scotch, who have been preferred in every department of government. Declamations against measures may be idle, impertinent and false; but facts are indisputable: they are here laid before the Public, and from these let them judge.

N. B. The reader is desired to observe, that all those preferments which have prefixed to them not only the month, but the day of the month also, have been authenticated by the London Gazette.
